

ARTICLE APPEARED
ON PAGE B-5

WASHINGTON POST
15 January 1985

OBITUARIES

Edwin George Orrick,

73, a retired Army colonel who later worked for the Federal Aviation Administration and the Central Intelligence Agency, died of a heart ailment Jan. 11 at a hospital in Kansas City, Mo.

Col. Orrick, who moved to Kansas City last year, was born in Garrison, Kan. He earned a degree in civil engineering at Kansas State University. He joined the Army in 1934. During World War II, he commanded troops in the Mediterranean and European theaters. He retired in 1971. He later worked briefly for the FAA as a safety officer and was a consultant with the CIA.

He was a member of the Fort Myer Officers Club.

His marriage to Patricia Orrick ended in divorce.

Survivors include his mother, Georgia Wessel of Kansas City, and a sister, Rozella Charlesworth of Prairieville, Kan.